

Forward: Expert Analysis of The Relationship between The Spectrum of Schizophrenia and Autism and How They Can Be Identified by a True Core Personality Trait that is Curable and Not Innate.

Psychiatric Evaluation should hold no value to the Diagnostic Label itself, but aid as a supportive measure to integrate the individual into society on every level to fulfil the individual's idea of sense of purpose and making a meaningful contribution to their lives/ society.

New Definition:

Neuropathic personality

Physiological or psychological traumatic entry in the body/ CNS with physiological or neuropsychiatric manifestation resulting in a spectrum of schizophrenia identified as a schism in the personality/ behaviour traits ultimately resulting from a schism in perceived doubt ie. Self-Doubt.

Causes:

- Emotional trauma
- PTSD which is now known as Post Traumatic Physical Disorder (PTPD) eg. Phantom limb pain, physical/sexual assault, victim of a trauma-inducing event eg. Terrorist attack.

PTSD has no inherent value because the labelling in itself is traumatic and holds the individual into a state of irreparable stress/trauma in itself/psychotism.

PTPD is more accurate because it is always a perceived event that carries a physical assault on the individual that depraves the individual of their confidence and self worth. This depravity does not always happen in every individual therefore the term 'PTSD' is not an accurate description because not every event is a perceived stressful event.

Is Autism an adjunct of Schizophrenia? Autism is an inability to communicate effectively in any given situation owing to a sense that one is abnormal, and everyone around you identifies you as being 'abnormal' because of the way you are behaving or communicating. But if one accepts that one is abnormal and can just behave in their actual 'extroverted' way without perceived shame, embarrassment, guilt, and defamation of identity and social status, then one eliminates the schism in self concept and self identity. Therefore, Autism is not a real condition and can be cured, because Autism is a Fraudulent Self-Concept and Self-Image because if people can eliminate the schism in their perceived Self-Doubt and behave in and feel like their True Self then they are not Autistic. This can only Occur through their Own choice.

True Autism is not actually Autism, and this is defined as a totally permanent INEPT ability to communicate - ie. This is known as Mutism NOT Autism.

Both Schizophrenia and Autism depict a Neuropathic Personality Disorder, based on the propensity to develop a schism in their perceived self doubt affecting their concept of self-image - all of which is totally reversible and curable if one eliminates all the factors, internal and external, triggering any individual to doubt themselves in any given situation.

Therefore the diagnostic value holds no true personal injury to the named individual because it serves to aid them in healing them from the perceived traumatic event. Personal Injury can only ensue in light of the people or organisations or society that discriminates against the individual with the given Diagnosis, libel of which should be taken up against the perpetrator or source of misinformation.

Is it Autism?

Autism can be defined by the way that no one in the history of mankind has ever been able to succinctly describe what Autism/Autistic means in one/few short sentences. There is no meaning of it in the English Dictionaries owing to why it is wildly misunderstood worldwide.

Autism refers to not being able to communicate effectively in any given scenario involving more than just the self. Autism really is a result of not being able to accept that one is unique and communicate in their own way without feeling disgrace in a society where they would ordinarily be rejected from or ostracised from. Once one can release the extrospective eye looking in, the Autistic Individual will be able to communicate without feeling shame and embarrassment.

Autistic Individuals can feel overheightened empathy and hypersensitivity to all surrounding senses and stimuli. They are capable of highly imaginative play but the key identifying factor in distinguishing an Autistic Individual is that all these signs of empathy and imaginative play are completely diminished in all artificial/superficial including perceived scenarios and The Autistic Individual's capability of demonstrating their True empathic nature and ability to communicate confidently is dilinquished from their hyperdrawn oversensitivity to then feel shame and embarrassment from their perceived as well as apparent speculation. This is compounded by the fact their senses are now focused onto a Hyperexaminative, Hyperanalytic/Overanalytic Inquisition of the externally perceived situation on a base of a highly introspective examination of the self in any given scenario.

If a child shows signs of social withdrawal and lack of imaginative play on their own without being trusted into an artificial scenario, then they NEED to be assessed by a dual Audiology/Speech and Language Team to assess for Mutism, as well as identifying if it is just a True deviation in speech and language communication and understanding away from their mother's tongue. If MUTISM is ruled out then it must be determined if the child is actually displaying sociopathic behaviour and in that case a child forensic psychiatrist must be instructed. This is key in identifying early signs of latent criminal activity.

What is Psychosis?

A disturbance in behaviour or thought patterns compared to a normal pattern of the status quo for that individual.

The usual consensus in history is for individuals to take offence to the use of this word within their predicament, however the term 'Psychotic Event' should now be used to describe an event or situation of any undetermined period whereby Psychosis can involve and affect anyone involved within the Event not just the named Individual the event congregates around. The norm for this type of Event can predate any Individual to develop Neuropathic signs such as acting Psychotic because of a schism in self-perceived doubt about the event, and then be perceived by Other Personnel within the live event or exterior to the event either influx or in retrograde perspective, to 'BE PSYCHOTIC' or under an 'Episode of Psychosis'. This could be Due to the Named Individual being more sensitive to the Event or Situation at hand including those within it, and find this more Disturbing or Distressful than others at hand or perhaps at any other different time, location or with other personnel involved.

The Main Significance of A Diagnosis of Psychosis for any Individual in any given Societal or Medical Paradigm is that that individual and said associates are not forced to undertake making decisions, have a decision enforced upon them without their free will without having all the risks and clear definitive reasons explained to them that defines how this will better their current situation in terms of immediate safety, intermediate and long term considering those all involved within the Described/Said Psychotic Event. This will include ensuring the Safety of Others that will/may subsequently enter the same/similar/future dynamics.

Said Individuals need be made aware and counselled on the fact that those described within and the circumstances that predate the Psychotic event experienced by them may not ever reach a group consensus depicting what the Named Individual perceives even if that Individual has witnessed a disturbance or violation of justice. Such Events should be aforementioned to the Said Individual that a Change of Circumstances, with tailorised plans to suit immediate, intermediate and long term life goals will aid sustained recovery.

Psychiatric conditions can be demonstrated amongst the following spectrums of diagnoses for simplicity sakes, bar any co-existing or stand alone personality disorders.

Schizophrenia <-> Schizoaffective Disorder <-> Bipolar Disorder

Depressionism <-> Anxiety State <-> GAD <-> OCD

Speech & Language Difficulties

Dyspraxia Dyslexia

Mutism <-> Autism <-> Aspergers <-----> ADD <-----> ADHD

With Dyspraxia, this is more calculated as with Aspergers and ADD, one can work out how to get around the learning difficulties of Dyspraxia. With ADHD, Dyspraxia +/- Dyslexia can be the dominant learning difficulties so affected individuals have more apparent learning needs.

Research should now include chronobiology and chronopharmacology in these domains to aid management.

In Bipolar Disorder, Disturbance in Biological Clocks is prominent. In Herds, biological clocks have been commonly demonstrated to synchronise. If Bipolar clocks, shown to be genetically inherited, can be synchronised amongst individuals as do biological clocks, this may explain the grievance experienced amongst families with more than one member exhibiting depressive or manic signs and symptoms such as increased somnolence or hyperactivity and increased wake cycles. Does the circadian rhythm and hence mental health clocks change in transgender individuals?

Are Bipolar people who are extrovertedly/externally manic or hypomanic in presentation but have a narcissistic depressionism within, actually the True Narcissists We See Today?

The Purpose of Psychiatric Diagnostic Phrasing should be for one to invoke insight into their situation that predated the label given to aid the steps and fulfill their goals of recovery. If no diagnosis is given over the course of long term psychiatric treatment then this can lead that Individual into being trapped into longer/more complex psychiatric medical regimens of indeterminate reprieve. It is up for the Individuals To Work Out The Underlying Cause Behind Their Neuropathic Personality that instigated PTPD.

The Treating of Psychotic Psychopathic Individuals with a propensity to cause mass harm

Can CRISPR technology delete/edit out a good gene? Should we allow CRISPR for humanity but the rule must be to NEVER ALLOW HUMANS/PROGAM TECH TO DELETE GOOD GENETICS OR USE THIS FOR PURELY AESTHETIC REASONS.

NB. IF we delete the bad genes in conditions that confer a sexual characteristic that is of a genetic defect eg. Klinefelters and Turners, and mitochondrial diseases then humans will naturally become more aesthetically pleasing anyway, either from releasing the harm done to self esteem and self concept but also undoing the effects of harmful inbreeding.

X-Linked conditions also include familial cholesterol and FAP conditions.

Klinefelters and Turners syndrome individual's have a psychological characteristic that confers inbreeding and potentially grooming/paedophilic tendencies because of hypogonadism.

Race and Religion are used as vessels to groom men, women and children when really it is the gender war that predates one gender to try to groom and manipulate their specified gender target that triggers insecurity in them. It is not necessarily a case of what gender the targeted individuals identifies with or does not identify with, but more what the Grooming Offender identifies their Target as and what They Can Mould Them Into. The Offenders will use tactics such as grooming with gifts and indulgences, drugs, and alcohol to instil an addiction and dependency habit in those they choose to target as their victims. The Offenders will spread mistrust about their target's family eg. Death of or abuse by a loved one; healthcare staff; to disable the named target from trusting their helpful network and together with their grooming tactics will spread radicalisation. These are the prime targets who will become radicalised because they are vulnerable and will be scapegoated for a crime or terrorist activity that they will be complicit with or deemed to be complicit with. These Vulnerable Prime Targets will have exhausted all helplines and because of their prior seemingly ASBO behaviour from the mistrust they have perceived during their livelihoods in all social care and mental health domains, They will be then Victimised by Law Enforcement and Law Officials as being the Prime Suspect in the Specified Crime/ Terrorist Activity.

Misogynists vs Feminists are the Groups who will be striated into falling into these groomers but they themselves are Vulnerable too because of The Group Support Dynamics They Fall into, Anyone within this remit can then potentially be blamed or scapegoated for any societal wrongdoings or crimes against humanity. These are the People that need to be identified early on to be re-enabled back into Society because they had a common cause they fought for that led them to be ostracised from society, and that is their passion to strive for humanity, except that their own personal needs were never nurtured in the best way they felt.

Such People would be better suited to Journalism in any domain rather than Activism, eg. Having a designated TV channel with regulation that abides with humanitarian law. This includes being open to any race or religion as long as it follows a Human Code of Conduct.

Should Activists be Lawyers?
Lawyers typically are Activists Anyway.
